

Did they perform?

Assessing five years of Bunge 2005-2010

1. Introduction

On July 16th 2010, following the completion of the 20th session of the Bunge, the President of Tanzania dissolved the 9th Parliament. This event marked the end of the term for Members of Parliament who were elected during the 2005 general elections. Now that the last session has been completed it allows us to look back and to consider how MPs performed during their tenure. Did they participate actively and represent their constituencies by asking questions and making interventions, or were they silent backbenchers?

The Bunge is the Supreme Legislature of Tanzania. The Bunge grants money for running the administration and oversees government programs and plans. The Bunge oversees the actions of the Executive and serves as watchdog to ensure that government is accountable to its citizens. To achieve all this, Members of Parliament pass laws, authorize taxation and scrutinize government policies including proposal for expenditure; and debate major issues of the day. For the Bunge to effectively carry out its oversight role, active participation by Members of Parliament is critical. MPs can be active by making three kinds of interventions: they can ask basic questions, they can ask supplementary questions and they can make contributions during debates.

This brief follows earlier briefs, the last of which was released in August 2010. It presents seven facts on the performance of MPs, including rating who were the most active and least active MPs.

The information in this brief was retrieved from the public Parliamentary On-line Information System (POLIS) posted on the Tanzania Parliament Website (<http://www.bunge.go.tz>) in August 2010. The full data set can also be downloaded from the Uwazi website (www.uwazi.org).

2. Seven facts about the past five years of the Bunge

To assess how active MPs were during the last five years, we report on the activities of all MPs, those who were elected (231) as well as MPs in Special Seats (75), Presidential Appointees (10) and those from the Zanzibar House of Representatives (5) and the Attorney General for a total of 322 MPs. In few instances we distinguish between MPs who do and do not serve in Cabinet. Where this is the case, this is clearly indicated.

Fact 1: CCM MPs made most contributions in the Bunge

A total of 25,765 contributions were made for all 20 sessions with an average 80 contributions per MP. CCM leads with 21,196 contributions, followed by CUF with 2,713 contributions, CHADEMA with 1,647 and UDP with 209 contributions. That CCM was most active is to be expected, since 278 MPs (or 86% of all MPs) are CCM as opposed to 32 (10%) CUF, 11 (3%) CHADEMA and 1 (0.3%) UDP.

Source of data: Parliament of Tanzania website (www.bunge.go.tz).

Fact 2: CCM MPs were least active in Parliament

Figure 2 shows how different parties fared when assessing the number of interventions per MP. With respect to basic questions, CHADEMA ranks first with an average of 20 basic questions per MP. CHADEMA also ranks first in supplementary questions with 40 supplementary questions per MP. The UDP (1 MP in Parliament) ranks highest in terms of making contributions. The ruling party, CCM, ranks last in one category, supplementary questions with 16 supplementary questions per MP. CUF ranks last in making contributions with 48 contributions per MP and UDP never asked a single basic question.

Considering the total number of interventions CCM ranks last with 76 interventions per MP, followed by CUF (85), CHADEMA (150) and UDP (209).

Fact 3: Elected members are more active than nominated MPs

Figure 3 depicts elected members as the most active in all three categories. MPs from the Zanzibar House of Representatives and those nominated by the President participate least in sessions of the Parliament. Note that this category excludes the Attorney General.

Fact 4: Male MPs are slightly more active than female MPs

The Ninth Parliament of Tanzania comprised of 222 male MPs and 100 female MPs. As shown in Figure 4 and in all three categories, average contributions per male MP exceeded those of female MP by a slight margin.

Fact 5: Cabinet members do not participate actively in Parliament

In Parliament there are 48 cabinet members, 26 Ministers, 21 Deputy Ministers and the Prime Minister. These are all CCM MPs. Out of these, 41 never asked a single basic question for all the five years they were in Parliament. Out of the 267 MPs who are not cabinet members and who are not high government officials (including the (deputy) Speaker and Regional Commissioners), 39 MPs never asked a single basic question.

Fact 6: Honorable Ndugai was the most active MP

To identify the overall performance of MPs who are not Cabinet members, Regional Commissioners or (deputy) Speaker the three types of interventions were aggregated to create a unique performance score. Aggregation was done by adding the number of times an MP asked a basic or supplementary question or made a contribution.

If this approach is used Hon. Job Ndugai is ranked as the most active MP with a total of 376 interventions: 29 basic questions, 60 supplementary questions and 287 contributions. The second most active MP is Hon. Jenista Mhagama followed by Hon. Dr. Wilbrod Slaa, Hon. Godfrey Zambi and Hon. Zitto Kabwe respectively.

Fact 7: Hon. Aziz was the least active MP

Using a similar approach to that one used in Fact 7, Hon. Rostam Aziz of CCM was found to be the least active MP out of all 'ordinary' MPs. Hon. Aziz is the only MP in the parliament who did not make a single intervention for his five years term in office. Other least active MPs are Hon. Ai Suleiman, Hon. Ali Ali, Hon. Salum Salum and Hon. Yusuf Makamba.

3. Conclusion

This brief has used information freely available from the Bunge website to assess the level of participation by MPs in the 20 sessions of the Ninth Parliament of the United Republic of Tanzania that took place between 2005 and 2010.

It was found that great variation exists in activity levels between MPs. The most active MP was Hon. Ndugai with 379 interventions; the least active MP was Hon. Aziz with zero interventions. The number of interventions is, of course, only one indicator of MP performance. Other important roles include working in parliamentary committees and engagement with citizens in their constituencies. Nonetheless, this brief provides an important perspective to citizens to assess to which extend their MPs have worked in their interests. It also provides an opportunity for each political party and each MP to further elaborate how they have been serving the interests of their constituencies in the past 5 years. Such open dialogue is crucial for democracy and accountability to be deepened.
